

Windows Fonts for Bahá'í Texts

Provided by the BCCA

d

ownload Windows TrueType fonts for Bahá'í diacritical characters The Bahá'í texts, when translated to English and other languages, have many diacriticals not supported by all Windows fonts. These include the dot under d's and the like. These two fonts, Times and Courier have essentially all the diacriticals you'll ever need to view documents that are properly formatted. To install the fonts onto your Windows PC, simply download and run these setup programs. They are completely automated and come with a Control Panel uninstall.

DOWNLOAD and SETUP (Windows 2000 Users: You may have to reboot after setup to have Windows recognize the fonts.)

Times Ext Roman

tFont.exe (800 kb)

Courier

cFont.exe (750 k)

• Step 1: How to Use - Simple Insert

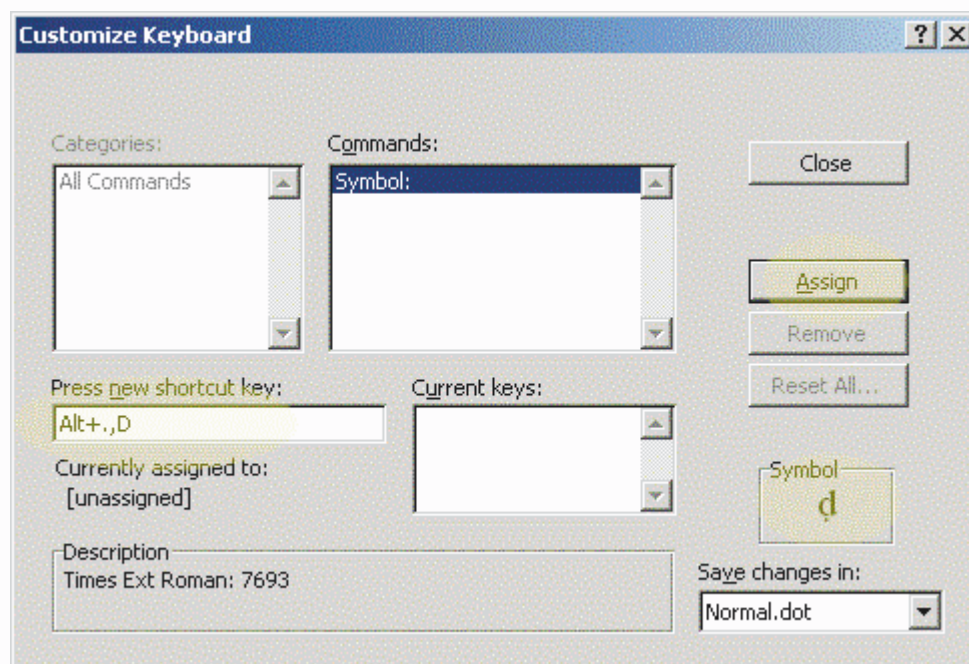

Open Microsoft Word. Choose the menu INSERT then choose SYMBOL Switch the font to "Times Ext Roman" Scroll through the list to find the character you wish and double click it.

• Step 2: How To Use - Make a Shortcut key

It'll take too long to use the INSERT method for a document. You can instead create a shortcut. In the above dialog box, click the SHORTCUT button. Then type the combination of letters to have that letter inserted.

In this example, ALT+Period and d were used to write a lower case dot under d so from now on all you have to do to put a dot under d is press ALT+. then d

Questions? Problems? Feel free to e-mail Casper Voogt at cvoogt@bccca.org.